NUMBER 257

Milwaukee has subscribed $3,204 for the Michigan fire sufferers.

Already Seville has received bona fide propositions for the possession of the carcass of Gautau after he is hanged.

If this independent movement in the Democratic party keeps on much longer, there won't be enough of the old party left to make a split.

Ohio has already five Democratic candidates for the Presidency in 1884. As regards candidates for public offices, Ohio will never be found in a sterile condition.

The county of Langlade is the largest county in the State having an area of 2,000 square miles, and is four times larger than Rhode Island, and three and a half times larger than the State of Delaware.

The Legislature which assembles next Wednesday will contain 38 farmers, 20 lawyers, and 19 merchants. The rest come from all sorts of trades and professions. Forty-five of the 133 members are of foreign birth.

Mr. Bookwalter, of Ohio, recently said he would never be a candidate for office again. It cost him $100,000 to get beaten for Governor of Ohio on the Democratic ticket, and he learns that such a political speculation yields no dividends.

Seven criminals were hanged in the United States on Friday—one at Marshall, Missouri; two at St. Louis; one at Jersey City; two at New Orleans; and one at Elmira, New York. Two more will be hanged at St. Louis next Friday.

It is believed that ex-Senator Sargent of California, will be appointed Secretary of the Interior, in place of Kirkwood. The latter does not want to leave the Interior Department, but he understands that the President wishes him to step down and out, and therefore he tendered his resignation.

General Logan says he will still stick to his original position in regard to General Porter. There is no new evidence, and no new maps, and Grant's change of mind will have no influence over him. The simple fact that Grant has re-read the proceedings of the martial court, does not change Porter's treachery into loyalty.

According to the American Register, published at Washington, the total number of killed and wounded in the war of 1812, was but little over 5,000. Now, after the lapse of seventy years, there are 25,000 widows of that war on the pension rolls. If the widows of the killed and wounded of the war of the rebellion should increase as rapidly as those of the little fuss of 1812, nearly the entire female population of the country will be widows and on the pension rolls.

It would rather indicate that President Arthur does not know what to do with Secretary of War Lincoln. There is no substantial reason why he should be invited to go, and to allow him to remain might be considered an injustice to the other members of the cabinet whose resignations were quickly accepted. Just at this time Mr. Lincoln's future is still a problem. He is in the hands of his friends not only so far as his present position is concerned, but so far also as 1884 is concerned. The name of Lincoln is still a power in the land, and from it Robert will draw much strength, but it is doubtful whether he can thereby carry the convention and the country in 1884. He makes an excellent Secretary of War, and is a young man of much promise, but this country never produced, and never will produce, but one Lincoln.

That there has been a marvelous change in the political sentiment in Texas can be seen from the statement of United States Senator Coke, of that State. At one time he was elected Governor by a Democratic majority of 100,000, and now there is an uncertainty whether there are enough Bourbons in Texas to carry the State. Mr. Coke said he had been in political life a great many years, but he could not remember the time when there was such a spirit of independence in that State as can be seen these days, and it seems to spread in all directions. In Texas there are about 200 Democratic papers, and gradually they are losing faith in their party and are becoming restless under the restraint, and are beginning to criticize the leaders of the party and to demand a change. Mr. Coke claims that not more than three and four of the 200 Democratic papers can be called reliable party papers. That which is going on in Texas is going on in every State in the South in a greater or less degree, and it is by no means idle to assume that within a few years the Solid South and the Democratic party will be wrecked beyond recovery.

Those planters who took such a prominent part in the Hamburg massacre in South Carolina, are now reaping the fruits of their barbarous policy. These planters were conspicuous for years for their zeal in maintaining red-shirted rifle clubs with which to terrify the blacks in political campaigns. But they are beginning to find that there is a Nemesis in all human affairs. The time came when the oppressed blacks could endure the outrage no longer. They became tired of their servile condition, and humiliated at being deprived of their political rights, and they banded together in Edgefield county and decided to desert their old home and move to Arkansas. This movement has created quite an alarming condition of things among the planters. They see the laborers on whom they are dependent for crops leaving them in a body. In a district 21 miles long and 4 or 5 wide, four-fifths of the negroes have joined the exodus. The Democratic papers in that portion of South Carolina, admit, by the force of facts, that the movement is a political one. Those planters who have been boasting for years that they "had the bigger under," are now under themselves, as many will be ruined thereby.

The telegraphic dispatches bring the intelligence that Mr. E. W. Keyes, of Madison, has commenced proceedings for a divorce. The matter is creating a good deal of a sensation, as the trouble seems to have broken out all at once. Mr. William F. Vilas, has been retained as counsel for Mr. Keyes, and William Pitt Lynde, of Milwaukee will appear for Mrs. Keyes. The prominent position in the politics of the State which Mr. Keyes has occupied so long, will lead certain papers, for the purpose of making the sensation all the more interesting, to give the case the worst possible coloring, and to publish many misrepresentations. It is stated in the dispatches that Mr. Keyes has commenced proceedings for a divorce on the ground of his wife's intemperate habits, and also incompatibility of temperaments. The friends of both parties will deeply regret the coming of this misfortune. For the sake of peace, Mr. Keyes has been compelled to take this course and his friends justify his acts, while on the other hand the friends of Mrs. Keyes will advise her to put in defense. Mrs. Keyes is still a young woman, and is highly connected in Milwaukee. She is Mr. Keyes' second wife, and by him has had one child.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Miss Frances E. Willard will do temperance work in the South this winter. The Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, is now seventy years old, and never read a fairy story, and until the other day he never heard of Cinderella.

Attorney General Brewster is something of a dandy, and on New Year's day at the President's reception, his fingers sparkled with jewels, and at his wrists he wore lace ruffles of fairy-like texture.

Baron Alphonse de Rothschild purchased for his wife the famous necklace of pearls for $134,000 at the auction of Madame Blane's jewels. One fan at this sale, studded with diamonds, sold for $25,000.

Meissner's portrait of Mrs. J. W. Mackay represents that lady in a walking costume of black satin with a great Gainsborough hat, and long gloves of tan-colored kid, one of which she is fastening. The artist is quoted as declaring that this is his masterpiece in portraiture.

When Goethe had reached the age of 75 he said, "I have ever been considered one of Fortune's chiefest favorites, yet truly there has been nothing but toil and care, and in my 75th year I may say that I have never had four weeks of genuine pleasure. The stone was ever to be rolled up anew."

Oliver Logan has seen Mrs. Langtry many times in London, and she now says: "I never saw a married woman whose face and bearing convey the idea of such absolute innocence and virgin purity as do those of Mrs. Langtry."

While General Sherman was walking about the east room of the White House on New Year's day with a young lady on his arm the Marine Band burst forth with a waltz. The General's eyes glistened and his elbows twitched, indicating a sudden inspiration to whirl her around the room. Noticing this, she said: "Why, General, I do believe you want to dance." "I do," he responded, "and am half inclined to give you a flirt or two in the face of social discipline."

John M. Starin, of New York, who has an income of $100,000 a year, began life by selling a horse linctant of his own manufacture.

When Clara Louise Kellogg was at Milan, Tennessee, on New Year's day, she gave her colored maid a seat at the table with herself, to which the proprietor objected. Miss Kellogg said the maid was allowed to sit with her at the finest hotels in the capitals of Europe, and if a Milan hotel could not permit it, she and the troupe would find some other hotel. The landlord decided he had better let Clara Louise alone.

J. H. Haverly, the famous and successful theatrical manager, owns seven large theaters and has ten companies under his control.

Restored From a Decline.

NORTH GREECE, N. Y., April 25, 1880. Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: DEAR SIR: I feel it my duty to write and thank you for what your "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription" have done for my daughter. It is now five weeks since she began her use. She is more fleshy, has more color in her face, no headache, and is in other ways greatly improved.

Yours truly,
Mrs. MARCELLA MYERT.

WILL KEYES GO?

General Interest Attaching to Howe's Forthcoming Action.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 6.—"I have attended my first Cabinet meeting," said Postmaster-General Howe, "and have survived it," and he seemed as enthusiastic as a man of very much younger years might be expected to, upon the acquisition of a new honor. One of the first cases which Judge Howe will be called upon to decide as Postmaster-General will be one of great interest in Wisconsin, and on account of the prominent character of one of the persons to the controversy, it will hardly fail to escape National attention. E. W. Keyes, sometimes known as "Boss" Keyes has for many years been postmaster at Madison. He is a very efficient officer. The records of his office show that the Madison postoffice is surpassed by none in its management. It would take the first rank in any system, even of competitive civil service. Keyes is a candidate for reappointment. He has practically had no competitor. President Arthur had intended to make out his commission within a few days.

No one in Madison had ventured to compete with Keyes for the office until after it had become known that Judge Howe was to be postmaster-general. Today there has appeared in Washington an applicant for the position, a Mr. Frank, a hardware merchant in that city, whose exploits in politics, like the achievements of Artemus Ward, in war, have been performed by his wife's relatives. Mr. Frank enjoys the distinction of being the brother-in-law of Horace Rublee, of Wisconsin, chairman of the Wisconsin Republican State committee, a man distinguished as a diplomat, a politician, and an editor. Horace Rublee is here in company with Frank. Wisconsin Congressmen think it is very probable that Mr. Keyes will be compelled to surrender his office to Frank, the brother-in-law. Judge Howe is presumed to be much more friendly to Rublee's sake than he is to Keyes, who secured his defeat when last a candidate for reelection to the Senate, and who, in this generation, has a much greater personal and political following in Wisconsin than the new postmaster-general can aspire to have. The only point that is raised in argument against Keyes' reappointment to the office is that he is also a member of the Legislature. There is no law against being postmaster and member of the Legislature, but there is an ancient order issued by General Grant when President that postmasters the salaries of whose offices exceed $1,200 shall not be members of the Legislature. The order was not observed even when Grant was President.

WISCONSIN MATTERS.

MILWAUKEE, January 6.—The collections by the chamber of commerce for the Michigan sufferers, now closed, amount to $3,204.

The parties engaged in preparing a statement of the liabilities of Gottlieb Engel, the defaulting lawyer, found that he lost over $3,000 in stock deals. It is supposed that the sum of his unfortunate speculations and embezzlements will amount to $35,000.

S. M. Hadduch, until now Assistant Postmaster in Marinette, Wis., is here under arrest for failure to affix stamps on overweight letters and packages, so as to make clear gain on the stamps he had in hand for that purpose.

General Manager Finney, of the Wisconsin Central Railway, has returned from Boston, having retained his position of President of the Continental construction company of that city. President Easton, of the Chippewa Valley and Superior railway, reports fifty miles of the road graded. The Howe truss bridge at Eau Claire is completed and five miles of iron laid.

The officers of the Wisconsin and Michigan railway are preparing to receive a deed on the first section of 350,000 acres of land granted in aid of such an enterprise.

THE MORMON QUESTION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 6.—Delegate Maginnis, of Montana, proposes an excellent way to put a stop to the present power of Utah polygamy and to place the polygamous Mormons under proper control of law. His proposition is to let Congress divide the Territory of Utah, incorporating the western part with the State of Nevada, the southwestern part with the State of Colorado, and the small northern part with Idaho and Wyoming. Congress has abundant power to do this, and it is claimed that when it is done the Mormon power will be broken. A part of the Mormon population will then be citizens of Nevada, and will be there only a minority of the whole State, and part will become citizens of Colorado, in a minority there. The small remainder will form a part of Wyoming or Idaho. The main portion of the Mormon population would thus become citizens of the United States, which have already established laws, to which the Mormons would of course be amenable.

BEECHER AND THE BOARD.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Mr. Beecher, in his "talk" at the weekly prayer meeting this evening, made no allusions to his utterances of Sunday last as to the board of education. In answer to a question, he said: "When the proper time comes I shall have something to say which will be understood." It was, he said, only a nine days' wonder which would do something good. Much importance in connection with this matter is attached to the promised message of his Honor, Mayor Low, to be sent to the board of education at their meeting on Tuesday next. It is believed that it may have some bearing upon the subject.

Frightful Misery.

Mr. Wm. Pomeroy, Bangor, Me., writes: "I have for a long time suffered from continual constipation, making my life a misery, and causing headache and frightful cramps. Mr. Thomson (who has been lately visiting in Buffalo), induced me to try the Spring Blossom. It has perfectly cured me." Price 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents.

For sale by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

MURDER BY A MADMAN.

KALAMAZOO, Jan. 6.—About the middle of the forenoon to-day, Dr. E. A. Adams who has in charge the male department, at the asylum, was fatally stabbed in the abdomen by one of the patients. The madman who committed the deed had had for some time past a fancied grievance against the doctor, and, having secured a knife in some unknown manner, succeeded in putting into execution his oft-repeated threats. Dr. Adams' friends have been telegraphed. All hope of his recovery is given up. An attendant in the same room was stabbed in the leg by the infuriated madman before he could be subdued and confined.

THE OSKALOOSA DISASTER

Further Accounts—Funeral of the Victims—The Damage.

OSKALOOSA, Iowa, Jan. 6.—The bodies of the three boys killed yesterday by the explosion were buried to-day. The Herald extra gives the details of the losses in part, which shows nearly $28,000, and the total loss will not be less than about $35,000. About thirty residences were badly wrecked, some of which will have to be rebuilt. Many of the people who have this sudden loss thrust upon them can ill afford it, and they will have to be aided to make the necessary repairs to their homes, but no appeal is made for outside help. The amount of powder in the magazine was 12,500 pounds, according to the books of the wholesale house acting as agents, and was the ordinary stock held, the mine in this locality using at least 500 kegs per month. It will take a week to put all the glass broken back, and in lieu of glass the openings are being closed with building paper and boards. Those who were severely injured are all recovering.

F. H. Drake's Sufferings.

F. H. Drake, Esq., Detroit, Mich., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease, which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used the Cuticura Resolvent (blood purifier) internally, Cuticura and Cuticura Soap (the great skin cures) externally, and was cured, and has remained perfectly well to this day.

A PLAYFUL SCUFFLE.

MUNCIE, Ind., Jan. 6.—This afternoon about 5 o'clock Jacob Cartwright and Labaner Lundy, laborers in Johnson's sawmill, this city, who were working in the yards, went in the engine room to get a drink and commenced a playful scuffle, both plunging their heads under the connecting rod of the engine, which was running at frightful speed. Both their heads were mashed to jelly, causing instant death. No blame is attached to any one. Cartwright was about 21 years of age, Lundy 18. Both were unmarried.

Unlike other cathartics, Dr. Pierce's "Pelle's" do not render the bowels constipated after operation, but, on the contrary, establish a permanently healthy action. Being entirely vegetable no particular care is required while using them. By druggists.

A LIAH, SARI

Startling Scene in a Colored Church. (St. Louis Republican.)

The good colored folks were seated in the Wesleyan Chapel, on Wash. street. All was silent in there save the rustle of the Bible leaves. The pastor was hunting for the text of his sermon. He had come to a passage that looked like the one he sought for, and he paused for a moment and bent his head lower and peered at the good words.

The congregation sent up a sigh, for the moment had arrived when they had to face their weekly lecture, when the warden of the little church opened the windows wider so that the good words of the pastor might float out into the night air and perhaps be heeded by the ungodly.

The minister raised his head, "I take for my text," he said, "the words: 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

"Blessed indeed," groaned a sinner from the rear end of the church. "There are many who come to church," said the pastor, "who would do well to remember these words. They are of that kind who come here and drink and eat of the good things, but who are never here at the time the box is passed around."

"Y-o-u-r-e a l-i-a-h!" were the words that came floating through the air and to the pastor's ears as he paused at the end of the above sentence. A tall, slender figure arose in the middle aisle of the church. It was the frame of a river steward, black as night, the face of John Raymond, twenty-one years of age, a recognized masher in colored circles. With right fore-finger poised, and pointing straight at the pastor he said:

"Your insinuations, sah, are general, but too pointed, sah. You are a l-i-a-h, sah, when you make such insinuations a l-i-a-h, sah—a l-i-a-h."

The pastor looked thunderstruck. With pupils dilated and arms outstretched he begged Mr. Raymond to desist.

Said Mr. Raymond: "I will see you in—first, sah—in—"

"Warden! Warden!" shouted the pastor.

Ashbury Bishop, for many years the venerable and respected Warden of the church stepped to the front.

He looked exceedingly consequential. He imagined that he had but to request Mr. Raymond to leave the church and he would leave. He asked Mr. Raymond to retire.

"You go to—!" said Mr. Raymond in reply. "I shall never leave here, sah, until I have had satisfaction—satisfaction, sah, or blood, sah, or b-l-o-o-d!"

The Warden became terrified. He ran out of the church and into the street, and half the congregation ran after him. The other half remained within and gazed in wonder at Mr. Raymond, who still held the church, and the pastor, too. The latter every now and then attempted an explanation, but before he could get fairly started in that direction Mr. Raymond silenced him with words which chilled the hearts of the golly within hearing distance. Such was the situation when good Warden Ashbury Bishop appeared in the sacred edifice again. This time he was not alone. Police Officer St. John, armed with ponderous night club, brought up the rear. The Warden led on until he was face to face with Mr. Raymond. He said:

"You must leave this church, Mr. Raymond; you m-u-s-t leave."

Mr. Raymond was going to say he would not leave, and curse the Warden again, when the officer collared him. There was a one, two, three, and then Mr. Raymond went out of that church on a run. Officer St. John dragged him to the Third District Station where he was locked up.

Little Johnny on Dogs.

One time there was a feller bot a dog of a man in the market, and the dog it was a biter. After it had bit the feller four or five times he threw a closeline over its neck and led it back to the dog man in the market, and he said to the dog man, the feller did:

"Ole man dident you used to have this dog?"

The dog man he looked at the dog, and then he thot a while, and then he said:

"Well, yes, I had him bout haf the time, and the other had he had me."

Then the feller he was fewrious mad and he sed:

"Wot did you sell me sech a dog as thim for?"

And the ole man he spoke up and sed:

"For $4.75, lollie money."

Then the feller he guessed he wold go home if the dog was willing. Uncle Ned, which has been in Indy and everywhere, he says the Mexican dogs don't have no hair on 'em. Dogs howl louden cats, but cats is more purry and can wok on top of a fence and blow up their tail like a bloom when they want to spit.—San Francisco Wasp.

He was a Frenchman, and he was searching for a certain pond; coming across a countryman, he inquired the direction. "Well," said the countryman, "you go along right as you are going till you come to two roads, then you turn right to the left and you'll be all right. Be careful not to turn to the right; if you do you'll get left." Then the Frenchman was glad he found out about it, and muttered something about the expressive force of the English language.

FINALE OF FOUR YEARS.

After four years of happy service upon the Gazette, in gathering and giving local news, the city editor with these few words drops his pencil, to sharpen a new one, to start forth to search a new field, and to give his findings to strange readers. It is in justice due that he should express his appreciation of the kindly treatment he has received from all those connected with the Gazette, and from the people of Janesville and surrounding country. Many words would only weaken the expression of gratitude, and there can be nothing coined in language having a truer ring than his honest, hearty—"thank you."

The task of writing day by day the local history of such a city as Janesville, is by no means an easy one. One comes in close contact with the readers, and has a personal interest in them; the work is necessarily a hurried one; the information has to be gathered from varied sources; and there is needed a delicate handling of the joys and sorrows of so many homes. The retiring city editor hopes that the readers of the Gazette appreciating these difficulties, which will be still greater to a stranger, will show to whoever may succeed him, the same charitable forbearance for errors of fact or judgment, and the same kindly assistance, which has so generously been bestowed on him who with these words bids the Gazette and them good speed.

—The Beloit Free Press invites the public to use its columns for a free discussion of the water-works question. Janesville has been through this preliminary struggle, and we know how it is. What is needed here now is action, not discussion.

It is evident they must please the folk in that section, and it is no wonder.

The team stopped near the gas house and both passengers were using the wagon as a sleeping couch, when the Marshal took them out of the cold, and lodged them in jail. ## A LIVE COON.

Officer Ed. Smith Captures One Battering Patrick Connors' Liquor Store Early this Morning.

Officer Ed. Smith, who watches on the west side of the river, nightly, is constantly on the look-out for every incipient sign of devilry, and about 2 o'clock this morning, he discovered that an attempt had been made to force an entrance into the rear of Patrick Connors' liquor store on Milwaukee street. The door had been forced open a little, and a piece of gas-pipe had been used as a wedge. It looked as if the burglars had been interrupted suddenly in their work, and after searching in vain for any suspicious prowlers, the officer stepped over to the east side of the river, informed Officer McGinley, and warned him to look out for them, as they had probably left the west side, and might start at work on the east side.

On returning to his beat he saw nothing more of interest until about 5 o'clock this morning. As Officer Smith was going through the same alleyway he heard a blow like that of a hammer, and hurrying along came full upon a man who stood with an axe in his hand, attempting to complete the work of breaking in the rear door of Mr. Connors' store, which was quite securely fastened by two bars. The officer at once drew his revolver, and called on the burglar to throw up his hands. The burglar started for him with the uplifted axe, evidently determined to commit murder, rather than be taken, but as he saw the revolver, and heard Smith's peremptory demand for him to drop the axe, and the quick threat to shoot him down in his tracks, the burglar dropped the axe. Smith then marched him at the point of his revolver into Milwaukee street, and from there took him to jail, where he now lies awaiting his examination.

The fellow proved to be a colored man, and he claims that another colored man put him up to do the job. He says the other fellow watched Smith, while he was to do the work, the proceeds to be divided between them. He also claims that the other fellow furnished him the axe. It remains to be seen how much truth there is in this statement. As for himself he seems in a fair way to be locked up instead of being locked out.

Officer Smith deserves credit for his coolness in the matter, when many other men would have shot down the fellow at once. The capture of the man alive, and right in the act, entitles the officer to a long credit mark.

A LEAP FOR LIFE.

Yesterday afternoon a large Newfoundland dog, belonging to Mr. Z. Schnell, on Milton avenue, met with a sad accident. He followed his boy-master down to Smith & Jackman's block, and while there missed the boy somehow. He hunted through the building after him, and made quite an ado, so much so in fact as to annoy some of the occupants of the upper floor, who, not knowing the cause of the dog's grief, started to chase him down the stairs. The dog made a sudden start down the stairs, evidently frightened, and instead of turning, jumped, clear over the balustrade, falling upon the floor below, a distance of thirty feet. This distance and the fact that the dog weighs a hundred or more pounds, would lead one to conclude that he must have been killed, but he wasn't. He gathered himself up, and disappeared. Late in the afternoon Master Jo Whiting saw a dog lying in a vacant lot, opposite Prof. Titcomb's house, and on approaching found that it was the self-same dog who was unable to stand upon his feet longer, had settled down in the snow. A man could not have spoken gratitude more clearly than that dog at the approach of a friend. Master Whiting, by the aid of some other boys, carried the big dog on a stretcher to Mr. Hawes' house, and after some search found out to whom he belonged, and soon Mr. Schnell appeared with his buggy and carried the favorite animal home, to be there cared for. To-day the dog bids fair to recover from the effects of his terrible leap. He is a very intelligent and valuable dog, and the family are so attached to him, that they are almost as anxious over him as though he was human, and he seems to appreciate every little act done to relieve his pain.

"WIDOW BEDOTT."

This very funny lady is to make all merry at the Opera house this evening. Haverly's company, with C. B. Bishop, as the "widow," have gained great praise everywhere they have appeared, and will doubtless please all to-night. The New York Herald says: "His droll sayings, his malapropisms, his wonderful facial play and his irresistible bonnie swept the audience away in a tide of laughter that never ebbed until the curtain fell upon the wily widow and her prey in the last tableau. Everybody knows the episodes of this story, and it need only be remarked that every funny point was made the most of by the company, which is much better than that presented by the generality of 'star' performers."
